about Very comfortable in the space between the left and right sides of my brain. After spending years working in the coding and operational side of the software industry, my aptitude for reducing friction and complexity in interfaces led me to the design side of tech. I also have an inherent visual sense which I've cultivated through my photography. After a couple years designing complex mobile and desktop experiences for the financial industry, I am looking for a new position in which to explore new industries and experience the latest approaches to design.
